Making it happen...

This year we took a pause. We spent the year developing some products, but our main focus was on improving our traditional business and looking in new directions. It has been a challenging time and along with these hardships, come new opportunities.

The first opportunity comes from looking within. We've always tried to improve our product quality and manufacturing efficiency, but when we started talking more closely with our vendors and customers, we had some interesting conversations. We found new and better ways to ship our orders. We changed some case pack quantities to make it easier to order. We discovered new ways to use our website to better meet the needs of teachers and students. This calm reflection has had an excellent impact on efficiency.

Next, we looked outward. We spoke to customers about what was important to them. We love our customers and talking to them about what they need and how they need it provided us with a good framework to reorganize some outdated policies and services to be more adaptive to the changing environment.

Finally, we looked globally. We wanted to focus on our response to important issues that face our entire planet. Certainly in this time of turmoil and conflict we felt that, now more than ever, we needed to promote peace and cooperation. We want to talk to more teachers, more customers, more parents and more children. We want to understand what they enjoy in order to find ways to make it even better. Likewise, we needed to find out what they are reluctant to do to discover ways to make it easier. It may sound simple, but really listening to people can be hard—especially when they don't tell you what you want to hear. Listening is difficult, but that's why it is so important.

The final issue we need to explore is the environment...

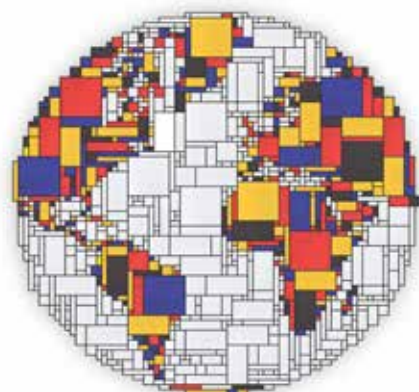

Our Commitment to the Planet

Finding ways to reduce our footprint on this beautiful planet provides many opportunities.

First, we streamlined our production to make it as efficient as possible. Along with the cost saving, there are other benefits. Being efficient means improving quality. There is nothing, after all, less efficient than customer returns. Improved quality means satisfied, repeat customers. Win/win. Additionally, improving efficiency means using less energy, throwing out less waste, and better using resources. All of these benefits reduce our environmental footprint.

Second, using non-traditional, safe and environmentally-friendly materials is a great way to introduce younger students to recycling, reusing and repurposing. While most early childhood educators are expert at the three R's, helping them re-inforce those principles to their students is crucially important.

Third, we continue to develop our recycling program. In 2022 we diverted an additional 27 tons of material directly from landfills into recycling centers. Over the last twenty-five years we have recycled over 250 tons of paper and card. We've done a lot to date, but there is still much to be done

Beautiful Bugs/Wonderful Rocks

Explore bugs! Check out our new R52078 Insect Masks. Based on "real" insects, these cardstock masks are fun to decorate with paint, crayon, marker and collage materials.

Extend your exploration by making beautiful window decorations with R52068 Junior Bug Stained Glass frames.

Kids will get excited to stack, sort, arrange and count with our beautiful R21004 Light Learning Rocks. The colorful, transparent stone-like shapes work well on light tables. Hold them up and look through them to see the world in a colorful new way!

A World to Rediscover

Our catalogue cover features art created using our new R15637 Mondrian Mosaics. The double-sided, cardstock mosaics are printed with paint-brush textures in the same color palette Piet Mondrian used to explore universal values and aesthetics. Beautifully printed on sustainable material using vegetable-based inks, they are perfect for exploring art and art history.

Looking Back

Understanding our past is as important as focusing on our future. Check out our new R24901 Color Diffusing Dinosaurs.

Have a little fun...

In a world that can seem hard and unfriendly, sometimes you need to have a little fun. Our new R24904 Color Diffusing T-shirts are perfect for creating happy art! Use them to explore fashion, make a statement, support a local team or express personality. The high quality, super absorbent, sustainably source paper works beautifully with washable marker, liquid watercolor, chalk and more.
