Plein air

Artists have been painting en Plein Air (A French term meaning “in the open air”), long before the term was made notable by the Impressionist movement of the 19th century. With their newly portable tubes of paint, compact easels and bright colors born from the industrial revolution, the Impressionists, such as Monet, Renoir and Pissarro, flocked to the outdoors to capture nature’s beauty and bring forth a new perspective on capturing light and color changing the way we view art and our surroundings forever.

Plein Air Artboard Pads are part of the Artist Series Range and are the perfect companion to any artist, enabling them to express their creativity, indoors and outdoors. Canson takes traditional techniques and offers a new and innovative delivery system that is portable, rigid and convenient. These pads contain 10 rigid artboards that are laminated to a variety of high quality Canson papers. The pads are glued on one side and have a foldover heavyweight cover. Available in 3 convenient sizes and four paper types.
