Stay Organized with Vertiv VR Cable Ladder Accessories

The Vertiv VR Cable Ladder accessories include a host of components that enable IT managers to organize their cable routings across multiple racks or rows. Cable ladders bridge the gap between racks and provide a secure pathway for cable routings. Other components such as the wall management kit and cable trough adapters allow for mounting the cable ladders to various places in the data center, while the ladder suspension kit and angle adapter kit allow for bridging longer distances and changing the height to avoid obstacles while keeping aisles open for traffic.

All these accessories were designed to be easy to install and can be combined with each other to provide a very modular solution for a variety of installation sites. By routing the cables in an organized manner, not only is airflow improved, but the cables are protected from damage over time and IT equipment is made more accessible for both operators and service technicians.
